

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In the case that the video and audio information obtained from the digital broadcast or a digital recording medium coded according to a predetermined information processing rule is digitally transmitted, the normal reproduction and special reproduction are performed reproducibly as in the case of an analog signal processing equipment. A data reproduction transmission apparatus for reproducing the video and audio information coded according to a predetermined information processing rule provided with a decoding means 2 for decoding the coded data that includes the video and audio information, a data conversion means 3 for converting the digital data obtained from the decoding means 2 to the video and audio information that is acceptable for an analog signal processing equipment, and a data restructuring means 4 for restructuring coded data or decoded digital data that includes at least the video and audio information to the coded data that is acceptable for a digital signal processing equipment.

001209881900